

Scenario #1 – Student on Student

1. On the first day of class, Jamie sits next to Alex. Jamie smiles at Alex, but says nothing.
2. On the second day of class, Jamie sits next to Alex.
3. After that day's class, Alex sees Jamie in the Union grabbing lunch. Jamie sits at the table immediately behind Alex and eats lunch alone.
4. Every day at lunch from then on, Jamie sits at the table behind Alex in the Union, grabbing lunch. They never speak.
5. Jamie "friends" Alex on Facebook. Alex accepts.
6. Jamie "likes" a few old pictures that Alex has on Facebook.
7. Jamie begins "liking" every picture that Alex posts on Facebook.
8. Jamie begins commenting on every picture that Alex posts on Facebook.
9. Jamie tags Alex on Facebook and says, "See you in class."

Scenario #2 – Student on Faculty

1. Professor hands back an assignment. Student got a D.
2. Student emails Professor to argue about their grade.
3. Student comes to office hours to argue about their grade.
4. Student stays after class to argue about their grade.
5. Professor tells student that the grade stands, that the conversation is over, and that the Professor needs to leave.
6. Student follows Professor out of the classroom, still arguing about their grade.
7. Another professor steps into the hallway and stands between Student and Professor.
8. The other professor takes Student into an office, listens for a few moments, and tells the Student to stop harassing the Professor and let it go. (Professor makes a quick getaway.)
9. Student shows up at office hours the next day to argue about their grade.

Scenario #3 – Student on Student

1. Jen breaks up with Ben after two years. Jen would describe the relationship as "abusive."
2. The next day, Ben shows up outside Jen's class to talk. Jen declines.
3. As Jen walks across campus, Ben follows her.
4. Ben begins crying hysterically and pleading with her as she walks away.
5. Ben gets on his knees and follows her, begging her to come back to him.
6. When Jen gets to her next class, Ben sits outside the door and waits for her.
7. After class is over, Jen tells Ben to go away, and Ben leaves.
8. In Jen's third class, Ben keeps walking back and forth past the classroom windows wearing a thick wool sweater that Jen hand-knitted for him. It's eighty degrees outside.
9. Jen tells Ben to go away. Ben texts her back that he intends to "follow [Jen] to the ends of the earth" until she takes him back.
