Tips for Zane State College Students:

- You do not have to wait to graduate from Zane State College before you apply to Franklin University. Your application is good for one year - so most students apply 1-2 terms before finishing their associate degree.
- Apply early so you can take advantage of the scholarships available for transfer students – deadlines are April 1 (summer term), July 1 (fall term) and November 1 (spring term) each year.
- Reach out to your Franklin University Admissions Advisor as soon as you know you are interested in continuing your education. Your counselor can help you stay on track throughout the admissions and transfer process through early advising right on the Zane State College campus.

How will my credits transfer?

You are encouraged to contact your Franklin University Admissions Counselor. Your counselor can look at a copy of your unofficial transcript and provide you with an unofficial evaluation that will make available classes that transfer, classes you would have left to complete your bachelor's degree, as well as the classes that can be took at Zane State College – paying Zane State College's tuition rate the third year.

If you decide to move forward, then you can complete a free undergraduate application and send in official transcripts from all of the colleges you have previously attended - to earn maximum transferability and acceptance for admission to Franklin University. Your Franklin University Admissions Counselor will be there with you all the way. Your counselor will even register you for your first term at Franklin University.

You can also visit our MyTransfer Credit tool to help you determine the transferability of your credits into the specific major you are interested in pursuing. If you come across a course that is not listed, that does not mean those credits are non-transferable, they may just have to be manually evaluated.

What about credit for professional experience or courses I took through my employer?

We recognize that you may acquire knowledge through professional experience or other methods of instruction. The Franklin University Learning Exchange is a convenient web-based tool that allows you to collect certifications, military training, advanced placement, and other learning experiences for evaluation.

It starts with your resume – no charge and no commitment! Visit our Learning Exchange website to learn more.
